

Lago Workers Vote To Keep 48-Hour Week

Over 1800 Lago employees who work 48 hours a week have voted to leave the work week unchanged. Only 38 voted to drop down to 44.8 hours a week.

At better than 48-to-1, Lago Employee Council constituents indicated in an LEC referendum that they preferred the existing work week rather than the 45-hour maximum set up in a Work Regulation adopted last year by the Central Government.

The Work Regulation has not yet gone into effect.

On ballots distributed by the LEC, the 48-hour workers were asked to vote:

1. I am in favor of keeping the 48-hour work week — or —

2. I am in favor of reducing the 48-hour work week scheduled to a 44.8 hour work week schedule. I understand this would involve a corresponding reduction in pay of approximately 6 1/4 percent.

The constituents voted 1854 to 38 in favor of retaining the present work week. Of 1928 ballots cast, 36 were declared invalid. A total of 2147 employees were eligible to vote. Of this number, 115 were on vacation when the referendum was conducted April 23 — 26 while an additional 15 were absent because of illness. Eighty-nine ballots were not returned.

Lago had previously informed the LEC it would not pay 48-hour work week wages for a 45-hour work week, the maximum allowed under the 1952 regulation.

The company said, however, it would seek an exemption as a continuous operation if the 48-hour workers indicated they did not want a shorter work week with a corresponding decrease in pay.

Meanwhile the Central Government — recognizing opposition that developed in some quarters — suggested that a sub-committee be formed to consider supplementary legislation.

The government asked interested parties to serve on the sub-committee, and requested that Lago and the LEC appoint sub-committee representatives.

Lago appointed J. V. Friel, Industrial Relations Manager. The LEC named its president, B. K. Chand, with G. Giel as an alternate.

Ten Candidates Listed for Coming LCAC Election

Nine men and one woman will be up for election to the Lago Commissary Advisory Committee May 27, 28 and 29. Six are National, four are non-National candidates.

Aruba Assumes Control Of Own School System

Takes Over From Staten May 1

Aruba achieved another measure of control over its internal affairs May 1 when it assumed the administration of Aruba's school system. As a result of the transfer of authority, Aruba may now determine:

1. When and where schools are to be built.
2. The number of grades they are to contain.
3. By whom they are to be staffed.

With these privileges also went the responsibility of financing the operation of the system.

Supervision and financing of school systems in Aruba and the other islands of the Netherlands West Indies was formerly in the hands of the executive council and Gov. A. A. M. Struycken. Last month the Staten passed, and the governor approved, a resolution transferring the authority to the two Aruba councils on May 1.

The shift was authorized under the so-called "Island Regulation" signed in March, 1951, by Queen Juliana and marks the fourth major shift of supervision of internal affairs from the Central Government to Aruba in the past two years.

Maintenance of the island's school system is to be a Fls. 3,000,000 budget item this year. During 1953, Aruba has budgeted Fls. 984,326 for the operation of its public schools and Fls. 1,871,903 for the operation of its parochial and 'private' schools.

In addition, Fls. 50,000 have been set aside to provide "special courses" — Papiamentu, automobile repair, etc. — for island residents; an additional Fls. 67,000 have been earmarked for scholarships in Holland and the United States and another Fls. 51,000 have been designated for school health services.

An additional Fls. 1,117,580 has been put into the island's 1953 school building program. Of this amount, Fls. 189,000 has been allotted for the construction of a six-grade public school in San Nicolas and completion of a 10-grade school in San Nicolas which is scheduled to open in September.

Parochial Schools

Four new parochial schools are scheduled to be built at a cost of Fls. 578,580. They are a 10-grade school for boys and another 10-grade school for girls in San Nicolas, a six-grade school for girls in San Nicolas and a seven-grade school for girls in Paradera.

The remainder of the construction fund — some Fls. 350,000 — has been marked for the completion of the island's vocational school in Oranjestad.

As of May 1 the two councils assumed supervision of a system which had 11,240 students, 344 teachers, 14 public schools, 20 parochial schools and three 'private' schools.

There were 2715 public school students, 7938 parochial school students and 587 'private school' students. There were 93 public school teachers, 214 parochial school teachers and 37 'private school' teachers.

Governor Calls Sport Park Plant 'Tremendous Gift'

Close to 7000 persons turned up at the Lago Sport Park the night of April 29 to celebrate Queen Juliana's birthday, witness the inauguration of lights over the playing field and watch some 150 athletes compete in the park's 13th Olympiad.

The Olympiad, kicked off by a kite-flying contest at 6 p.m., was interrupted one hour later for the inauguration ceremony.

As darkness closed over the field, members of Lago's Executive Committee, the Lt. Governor and officers of the Sport Park Board formed in front of the grandstand. Behind them members of the Sport Park Board carrying flags of various nations — were aligned.

Following the "Wilhelmus," B. Teagle, master-of-ceremonies, opened the inauguration by recounting the history of the park.

"On March 9, 1941, what was then probably the largest crowd in the history of Aruba attended the opening of the Lago Sport Park. It was a bare field, somewhat smaller than it is now," Mr. Teagle said.

He then traced the improvements to the park — the grandstand, the playground, the enlargement of the grandstand, the basketball court — tennis court — dance floor, the lights — which had been added over the years.

"Throughout this steady development much credit has been due the successive Sport Park committees," he said. "They have gained strong public support for their activities and this has encouraged Management to improve and expand the park's facilities for the greater benefit of employees and the community generally."

Then Lago President J. J. Horigan told the crowd which packed the stands and ringed the fence surrounding that park that "My associates and I are firmly convinced of the great value that sport activities have, both for the players and for the spectators."

"Convinced that what promotes sports and healthful recreation is good for Aruba, we are happy to provide the lighting that will increase the usefulness of our sport park for these activities."

"I wish to dedicate these lights to the men, women, and children on the playing field and to the men, women and children in the grandstand."

As a symbol of the cooperation "between the employees, the management and the government," representatives of the three groups then grasped ribbons which were attached to a rope which activated the main light switch.

As they pulled on the ribbon, the rope closed the switch and the nine clusters of 1500-watt lights blazed out.

Robert E. A. Martin, chairman of the Sport Park Board, thanked Lago in behalf of the board and company employees; "I'm sure I speak for all of us when, to Mr. Horigan and to Lago, I say, 'Thanks a million,'" Mr. Martin said.

Lt. Gov. Dr. L. C. Kwartsz, concluding the lighting ceremonies, said the Sport Park and the lights were a "tremendous gift" from Lago and compared them to similar facilities the company contributed to the Wilhelmus Stadium in Oranjestad.

He, too, expressed the island's thanks to Lago and pointed out that the addition of lights to the Sport Park would provide after-dark recreation, help curb juvenile delinquency and facilitate international competitions which, he added, would benefit Aruba's "international relations."

Aruba Contractor Slated To Finish Dispensary March 3

A replacement for Lago's dispensary was scheduled to go into construction Thursday, May 7 following the signing of a contract with the firm of Petrona and Croes.

The Aruba concern said it would have the four-clinic, air-conditioned structure ready for use in 300 days or March 3, 1954. It will be located across the street from the laundry between the Lago Employee Council building and the commissary warehouse.

By removing four buildings, Lago made the site ready for the start of construction of the T-shaped structure which will offer, for the first time, dispensary service to women employees.

One clinic will be set aside for women, another will be designated for marine personnel use, while the remaining two will be assigned to refinery workers.

The replacement of the 20-year-old dispensary will be located near the Main Gate — rather than on the site of the old unit — in order to provide room for expansion of the Main Shops. The cost of clearing the site and erecting the building is expected to be over Fls. 700,000.

The dispensary replacement is the first Lago building on which only Aruba contractors were invited to submit bids. Petrona and Croes was given the contract on the basis of its cost and guaranteed completion date.

Aruba councils since the "Island Regulation" was passed.

In September, 1951, the Department of Public Works was transferred to Aruba. In October of that year, the Water Supply, the Civil Registration and Census Department, the Fire Department, the Department of Agriculture, Fisheries and Animal Husbandry, the Telephone Service and Transportation Department were placed under Aruba's jurisdiction.

In January of this year the Harbor and Pilotage Service, the Airport and the Public Health Department were shifted to Aruba's supervision. May 1 of this year, with education, the vocational school and the public library were also made Aruba's responsibility.

Still to be transferred is the Department of Social and Economic Affairs which, it is expected, will be split into an island and a territorial section. No date for the division has been set.

Though Aruba has taken over supervision of the operation and development of its school system, its educational standards will still be set by the Central Government's Department of Educational Affairs.

While Aruba's Administrative Council has been given the right to appoint teachers, the naming of

Aruba Motorists Will Get Esso Auto Key Chains

Lago's Marketing Division expects to start about May 15 issuing key chains to Aruba motorists.

The key chains will carry a plastic tag bearing the license number of the car driven by the motorist. If the keys are lost, the tag suggests the finder put them in a mail box from which they will be returned to the Marketing Division.

By checking government motor vehicle registration records, division personnel will be able to determine the owner of the car. The keys will be sent to the Esso Service Station nearest the owner's home. The manager of the Esso Service Station who gets the keys will then personally deliver them to the owner.

Motorists may obtain the key chains initially by purchasing at least Fls. 3 of petroleum products at any of the five Esso stations on the island. The station attendant will note the license plate number and turn the information over to the Marketing Division.

The division will then provide the station attendant with a chain and a tag bearing the license number. A motorist may pick up his chain and tag five days after the license number is turned in.

One tag will be printed for each of the approximately 5,100 motor vehicles registered on the island.

school principals must still be approved by the Central Government's education supervisors.

Two Public Works Employees Win Beach Resort Design Contest

Two architects with the Aruba Public Works Department have won Fls. 500 with their design of a proposed bathing resort at Palm Beach.

M. F. van Drie and S. Zeylmaker titled their entry "Basiroeti." It was selected by the Administrative Council as the best of five submitted in a contest conducted by the Aruba government which hopes "to build modern bathing facilities where tourists can enjoy themselves on the magnificent beaches of Aruba's Palm Beach."

Limited to a building whose construction would not cost over Fls. 150,000, the two men designed a two-story center unit flanked by one-story wings. The center unit — called a 'recreation hall' — contains room for a restaurant, snack bar, kitchen and beverage bar. Each of the wings — one to be used by men and the other by women — provides shower and dressing facilities for 50 persons.

The building is of Caribbean-Dutch style. The center is fronted by a covered terrace on the sea side and has one main entrance door on the land side.

The sea side of the sloping roof is pierced by three dormer windows.

The traditional "old Aruban home" style was followed, the designers said, as a tourist attraction and because the "old Cunucu homes" fit "wonderfully well in the landscape."

Wreckage Bits Only Clue To Fate Of Five Men

Lago Thanks Creole For Seeking Lost Fliers

Lago sent thanks this week to the Creole Petroleum Corporation for its help in searching for five Lago employees who disappeared in March on a flight from British Guiana to Aruba.

In a letter to A. T. Proudfit, president of Creole, Lago President J. J. Horigan said, "We in Lago are all indeed grateful for the quick actions, complete reports and wonderful cooperation received from the Creole Petroleum Corporation with the search for five Lago employees lost in the airplane PJ-AMM."

"We are also grateful for the generous assistance given by the Venezuelan authorities."

"It is plain that all possible was done, and that the unfortunate lack of success was not through lack of effort. Here, you may feel sure that your efforts on this sad occasion have been fruitful in bringing the people of Venezuela and Aruba closer together in bonds of sympathy and understanding."

"Please accept our heartfelt thanks. We shall appreciate it also if you will convey appropriate thanks to the Venezuelan Government and to all those who had a part in the search."

At Lago's request, Creole employees and members of the Venezuelan National Guard conducted an air-sea-land search for the men who disappeared March 23.

They were Edward R. de Freitas, 29, pilot of the Cessna airplane in which the men were on a flying vacation; Joseph I. Castilho, 33; Oscar E. Nascimento, 36; Eric J. Jardine, 30 and Henry F. Abraham, 30. All were natives of Demerara, B.G.

Wreckage identified as being part of the plane in which the men were flying was found on the Caribbean shore near Higuero, Venezuela, two days after the men left Barcelona, Venezuela, where they reportedly landed for engine repairs.

No further trace of the airplane or the men has been found.

A BROTHER, THE WRECKAGE AND THE SEARCH: Clark Jardine, brother of Eric J. Jardine who was one of the five men believed lost, flew to Venezuela to help in the search. He is shown (center, at left) viewing a seat cushion thought to be from the missing plane. Aruba Celebrates Queen's Birthday; Program Varied Aruba went all out in its celebration of Queen Juliana's birthday with sports events, parades, musical programs, group singing, a reception by the lieutenant governor and church services.

A concert by the Aruba Jeugd Harmonie in the Willem de Zwijpart at Oranjestad and the 13th annual Lago Sport Park Olympiad kicked off the celebration Wednesday night. Thursday — the Queen's 44th birthday — was opened by the pealing of bells throughout the island at 6 a.m.

For the next 15 hours, island residents were busy parading, attending church, watching sailing races at Oranjestad and attending a public reception given by Lt. Gov. Dr. L. C. Kwartz which was attended by Gov. A. A. M. Struycken.

The observance was extended to Sunday when mass and the Te Deum were presented in the Roman Catholic Church at Oranjestad.

2 Freighters, Tug Hail San Nicolas As Welcome Port

San Nicolas proved to be a welcome harbor for two freighters and a tug which broke down off the coast of Aruba April 25. One was the Moore-McCormack Line "Mormac Swan," the second was the Dominican ship the "18th of December," the third was the Lago tug "Colorado Point."

The "Mormac Swan," bound from the United States for Brazil, arrived off the west entrance to the harbor the morning of the 25th and was taking a pilot aboard when her motive power failed.

The ship drifted to a point five miles off Oranjestad before attempts to repair the break-down were abandoned. A Lago tug, the "Colorado Point," was sent to tow the "Mormac Swan" into the harbor.

But while enroute to the ship which was riding at anchor, the "Colorado Point" suffered a partial engine breakdown and had to put about. Repaired, the "Point" set out once again and towed the freighter in. Moore-McCormack flew in repair parts from the United States.

The "18th of December" also made San Nicolas harbor the morning of the 25th, but not under her own power. The United States Naval Ship "Nodoway" found her adrift about 15 miles off the north coast of Aruba.

The "December's" engines had broken down and the ship was leaking. The "Nodoway," bound for Aruba for a load of petroleum products for the Navy, took the Dominican vessel in tow and brought her into San Nicolas harbor to be repaired in Lago's yards.

She sailed April 28 to complete her voyage to Curaçao.

NAMES in the MAJOR LEAGUES

Johnny Mize, New York Yankee first baseman, received the Babe Ruth Memorial Award for his outstanding play in the 1952 World Series. The award is presented annually by the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association to the outstanding player in the fall classic.

xxx

Loren Babe, who filled in so superbly at third base for the ailing Gil McDougald, was recently sold by the Yankees to the Philadelphia Athletics in a straight cash deal. While with the Yankees, Babe had a .333 average. He made six hits in 18 times at bat. Two of his hits were home runs.

xxx

Gene Woodling's sensational hitting spree is the result of a shorter bat. The Yankee outfielder is currently hitting a hot .472 for 12 games. When the Yankees made their trek northward from spring training, Woodling spoke to a bat salesman from Hillerich & Bradshy, bat manufacturers. The salesman suggested a shorter bat on the chance that the bat Gene used to hit .309 last year was topheny. So he changed. He kept the same weight — 34 ounces — but swings a 34½-inch bat instead of one an inch longer.

xxx

Joe Adcock of the Milwaukee Braves became the first major leaguer to hit a ball into the center-field bleachers of the Polo Grounds. The ball carried some 475 feet.

xxx

Marty Marion, manager of the St. Louis Browns, recently told reporters he had found Mickey Mantle's weakness. Said the Brownie manager: "He can't throw left handed."

xxx

Four Yankees and two Browns were fined recently as a result of a flareup at second base when Clint Courtney, Brownie catcher, came in high and spiked Phil Rizzuto. Both benches emptied and the players entered in a brawl that lasted 17 minutes. Fined were Courtney, $250; Billy Hunter, $150; Billy Martin, $150; Alie Reynolds, $100; Gil McDougald, $100 and Joe Collins, $100.

xxx

Bobby Thomson is at it again. The other day he won a 1-0 ball game for the Giants with a home run in the last half of the ninth inning against the Milwaukee Braves. It just goes to prove that he doesn't only hit ninth inning home runs against the Dodgers.

xxx

Manager Lee Durocher and Shortstop Al Dark of the New York Giants are at it again. Lee belabored his shortstop the other day for his play on what Durocher called an easy play. Dark "lobbed the ball to first" and failed to throw out the runner. It was one reporter's opinion that this latest split could result in either a new Giant manager or a new Giant shortstop.

xxx

Bill Bruton, Milwaukee Braves outfielder, is being touted as the fastest ball player in the Senior Circuit.

xxx

Paul Smith, rookie infielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has a chance to become one of the best dressed men in baseball. The youthful infielder was once employed in a clothing store just outside of Pittsburgh and his former employer has promised him a new suit of clothes every time he hits a home run.

Ingenious 'Right-of-Way' Men Blaze U.S., Pipeline Paths

In the wake of surveyors, engineers and installation crews, the United States is criss-crossed today by 160,000 miles of petroleum pipelines. These experts — with an assist from 'right-of-way' men — completed a record-breaking construction program during 1952.

The current issue of The Lamp, publication of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), tells the story of these 'right-of-way' men whose job it is to get permission from land-owners to lay a pipeline across their property.

Unlike the construction experts who have swarms of men, mammoth machines and the problem of dealing with land and pipe, the 'right-of-way' man is all alone, has only his own ingenuity, and must deal with people.

The Lamp tells of one right-of-way man who approached a newly-married couple in their 'rose-covered cottage' for permission to put a line under their new lawn and brilliant flower beds.

While winning permission, he learned the woman expected a baby and was so confident it would be a boy she planned to give him a "puppy," and pointed to a brand new dog house near the white picket fence which enclosed the yard.

Line Approaches

Day after day the couple watched as the line neared their land until one morning the crews were at their gate. Down went the gleaming fence and a monstrous ditching machine tore through the yard and flower beds. The pipe was put in, quickly covered and the crews moved on.

But not the 'right-of-way' man. Two days later he appeared with a crew of nurserymen and a truckful of plants. Before nightfall they resodded the lawn and set the garden to blooming again.

A short time later he reappeared, and left behind a cocker spaniel pup for the expected boy. As it turned out, the woman bore a girl, but as The Lamp observed "a right-of-way man can't arrange everything".

They try, though! A right-of-way man employed by a Jersey affiliate, the Interstate Pipe Line Company of Shreveport, La., sought in vain to gain permission from a land-owner who suffered a painful boil on the neck.

Boil or Stubbornness

Wondering whether he was fighting the boil or a case of stubbornness the right-of-way man slipped into the nearest town and returned with a medicine for boils. The property-owner was so impressed he said "okay" before even trying the remedy.

Invisible

Pipelines, for the most part, lie invisible and noiseless under the ground, often forgotten by the persons whose land they cross. They carry crude oil and refined products, such as gasoline and natural gas, east and north into New England and across the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific Coast.

Right-of-way men seek right-of-way contracts or 'easements' which grant their companies permission to lay the lines while allowing the land-owner full use of his property. Some 95 percent of the land-owners approached readily sign the agreements.

Against those who steadfastly refuse, pipeline firms have the right — as common carriers — to seek a court order granting permission while establishing just compensation. This privilege is exercised rarely and reluctantly and only after all negotiations have failed.

The pipeline firms rely on the 'right-of-way' men who sometimes have to repair flower beds or cure boils, but who almost always delivers the goods.

An Old Legend Tells Us Why the Sun's Rays Burn

In India, the story is told that the Wind, the Sun and the Moon were invited to a great party. Their mother, the Great Star, was invited to the party, too. But Mother Star had to stay home to guard the sky. She told her children, the Sun, the Wind and the Moon to go to the party and enjoy themselves.

It was truly a wonderful party with great platters of food. The best to eat and drink, and a wonderful time was had by all.

The Sun and the Wind were so busy enjoying themselves that they forgot all about the Mother Star, who had stayed at home.

But the Moon did not forget. She saved part of the wonderful food and drink that was given to her.

When the party was over and the Sun, the Wind and the Moon went home, Mother Star asked them how they had enjoyed the party.

The Sun and the Wind told about all the wonderful things that had happened at the party.

The Moon said, "I was sorry that you couldn't come to the party, Mother Star, and I have brought you a large platter of refreshments."

Mother Star thanked her daughter, the Moon, for being so thoughtful. She was angry with the Sun and the Wind for being so selfish and thinking only of themselves.

So the Mother Star said to the Sun, "To punish you for being selfish, from now on men will fear your burning rays and will cover their heads when you appear."

And to the Wind, Mother Star said, "Men will flee from you because they will fear danger from you."

But to the Moon, she said, "Men will welcome your gentle rays and admire you and love you and write poems about you."

And so it is in India to this day. Men seek shelter from the burning sun and try to run and hide themselves from the burning winds. But they welcome the gentle light of the moon.

An old folk tale from India tells why, to this day, men avoid the burning sun, but welcome the gentle light of the moon.

Aruba Boy, Miami Woman Keep 'Pen Pal' Friendship Following Meeting in Florida

Two of the steadiest 'pen pals' writing today are eight-year-old Eddie Everon of Aruba and Mrs. William K. Andrews of Miami Springs, Fla.

Eddie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Everon of San Nicolas and Mrs. Andrews, wife of a Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) representative in Miami, met last July when the boy flew to the United States for an emergency chest operation.

During the two months Eddie spent in the Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami, Mr. and Mrs. Andrews — childless but sympathetic with a boy alone so far from home — visited him daily. In addition, Mrs. Andrews wrote to Mrs. Everon to keep her informed of her son's progress.

After a successful operation and convalescence, the Andrews took Eddie into their home for the weekend prior to his departure for Aruba. Back home, the boy wrote to express his thanks to the Andrews, and the correspondence started.

This week Mr. and Mrs. Everon expressed their thanks to the Aruba individuals and groups who helped finance the operation.

"Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Everman," they wrote, "wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to all those individuals and groups who helped financially in paying the hospital and doctors' expenses while little Eddie was in Miami."

"Special thanks are due the Aruba government, the Lago Community Council, the St. Christopher Club, St. Theresa's Church, Mr. Joseph Silverberg, Dr. Lester Crismon and Dr. V. L. Hymans."
